How to Search within a Journal Title

Use this guide to teach you how to search within a specific journal to find articles of interest.

Next, click on the “E-Journals Only” radio button and enter the title of the journal in the search box. You can also browse alphabetically or by subject from a list.

The next page will give options for finding the journal in databases that ECU Libraries subscribe to. Note that there are multiple options to get access to this journal and there is another journal with a similar name. If you are looking for the most recent articles, click on the journal link that has a date range that ends in “to present.”
The webpage you see may look different from this one, but the idea is the same. Search for keywords in the journal in a provided search box to look for all articles on that topic in this journal. You may also want to see what was published in the most recent issue. Click in to the issue from the page.
